  o A strategy formulated without much employee involvement is more likely to have major flaws.
  o Tapping into the specialized knowledge of lower-level employees improves the strategy and its execution.

• Involving employees and stakeholders improves the understanding, acceptance and execution of the strategy.
  o A strategy that is developed without the involvement of relevant employees is likely to be resisted during its execution.

  o The objective is to make employees understand what the strategy is all about and what its goals are.

• Explain the strategy in a way that employees understand and may become convinced that the strategy is sound and effective.
  o Employees are more accepting of undesirable decisions when they receive clear and adequate explanations for those decisions.

EXECUTE THE STRATEGY

Visible results and especially ‘quick wins’ increase the motivation and commitment of employees to the strategy.
- People are more inclined to accept new things when they see that these things work and lead to results.
- Achieving quick wins can restore the confidence of employees in the strategy and organization when the organization is in crisis.

By making change visible and tangible through for example a new logo, uniforms and offices.
- This way, management can show that they are committed to the strategy and things are really changing.
- Achieving results enhance the performance of employees by making them proud and giving a feeling of competence.
THE STRATEGY EXECUTION MODEL

ADAPT THE ORGANIZATION

1. STRATEGY
2. EXECUTION
3. ORGANISATION
4. PEOPLE
5. SYSTEMS

STRATEGY SUCCESS
• Design a decentralized organization structure that is aligned to the strategy.
  o A decentralized structure increases commitment of employees to decision-making, speed of decision-making, and improves the quality of the strategy.

• Avoid a hierarchical structure with rigid rules and procedures.
  o Individuals in centralized organizations feel that managers do not trust their skills resulting in a sense of incompetence, reducing self-determination, motivation and performance.

• Design a clear structure with clear procedures, rules and responsibilities that gives employees certainty during the execution.
CREATE A FEARLESS CULTURE

• A new strategy involving layoffs triggers intense emotions such as anxiety and fear for job security among employees.
  o Job insecurity lowers job satisfaction, strategy commitment, trust in management and work effort and increases psychological withdrawal and resistance to change.

• Many organizations have a culture of fear in which employees are afraid to lose their job or to be treated harshly by their superiors.
  o A highly centralized structure with rigid rules creates a fear for making mistakes, responsibility, participation and change.

• Cultivate a fearless culture in which people dare to take initiative, voice their opinion and are not afraid to make mistakes.
TAKE POLITICAL INTERESTS INTO ACCOUNT

- Strategic change inevitably raises questions of power within an organization.
  - The very prospect of organizational change confronts established positions and may lead to resistance to change.

- Politics and struggles over power and leadership can undermine a strategy execution effort.

- Overcome resistance by involving potential opponents in decision-making, taking their interests seriously and confronting dissidents.

MOBILIZE THE PEOPLE

1. STRATEGY
2. EXECUTION
3. ORGANISATION
4. PEOPLE
5. SYSTEMS

STRATEGY SUCCESS
APPOINT SKILLED MANAGEMENT

• Competent management and employees is the most important requirement for successful strategy execution.
  o When employees have little confidence in the ability of management to execute the strategy then their strategy commitment will be low.

• Incompetent colleagues and especially managers have a very negative influence on the performance of team members.
  o Competent employees tend to leave an organization when they have to work for incompetent managers.

• Hiring new managers and employees is one of the best ways to achieve (radical) strategic change.
• People management skills are crucial for mobilize employees to successfully execute the strategy.
  o Coach and counsel employees to increase their motivation, performance, cooperation and commitment to the strategy.
  o Develop personal relations with subordinates by giving them sincere personal attention.
  o Make employees feel proud about themselves, their work and the organization.
  o Organize social activities to build better social relations among employees that increase their cooperation, motivation, and effectiveness.
• Successful organizations place high importance on training and developing their managers and employees.
  o Adequately trained staff is one of the most critical steps top management can take to ensure successful strategy execution.
  o Executing a new strategy often requires new activities and ways of thinking, which can be learned by training and educating.
• Training and education improves employee knowledge, skills, and self-confidence and makes them perform better.
  o Training and education can consist of courses, collective classes, (on-the-job) training, and individual coaching.
EMPOWER MANAGERS AND EMPLOYEES

• When employees have high self-efficacy and believe that they can perform the new execution tasks successfully, they are likely to perform well.
  o Low self-efficacy can result from low self-confidence, a centralized organization culture, an authoritarian management style, and an environment in which many things fail.

• Empower employees through coaching and counseling, delegation, role models and rewarding performance.
  o Empowering employees gives them a sense of competence which greatly increases their work performance and innovative behavior.
THE STRATEGY EXECUTION MODEL
BUILD MANAGEMENT CONTROL SYSTEMS

1. STRATEGY

4. PEOPLE
5. SYSTEMS

• Build an annual strategy management control system for developing, monitoring and adjusting the strategy.
  o Regularly meet in well-structured sessions to share information, reconfirm priorities and adjust the strategy or execution.

• Hold those responsible accountable when performance is lacking.
  o Many organizations have accountability problems resulting from a lack of planning, ineffective management information systems, or cultural values that do not encourage holding persons, especially in high positions, accountable.

• Adapt the strategy when the assumptions underlying the strategy are flawed or obsolete.
REWARD PERFORMANCE AND GIVE COMPLIMENTS
BUILD MANAGEMENT CONTROL SYSTEMS

• Build a reward system that monitors the progress of the execution and demonstrates top management’s commitment to the strategy.
  o Reward systems are essential for motivating staff and ensuring appropriate behavior in relation to the strategy.

• Rewarding execution performance increases the motivation, commitment and performance of organizational members.
  o Informal rewards (pats on the back, pride, enthusiasm) increase the motivation, self-confidence and performance of employees.

• Give task related feedback and compliments during the execution.
  o Employees often do not get compliments when performing well but do get criticism for making mistakes. This reduces motivation, self-efficacy and execution performance.
